A Day Dream.

From the hall door here, the first object which strikes the eye, beyond the lawn, is a magnificent field of clover, yet but slightly touched with frost, and all illuminated with the soft golden rays of the god of day, now sinking down luxuriously into a couch of crimson clouds. Beyond the clover is a field of fallow ground, whose mellow brown gives a pleasing variety to the landscape. Still farther on come woods and brown stubble fields—now growing gray as the autumn is waning—and above all, in the distance, rise majestically the lofty Alleghenies.

It is sunset in October—and what does not these words convey? The brilliant orb has run his daily course, and now he is gradually descending to light another hemisphere, amidst his retinue of gorgeous attendants. Gold and crimson mingle well, especially in the sunset. Far over there in the distance is a solitary tree—a noble oak—which has withstood the shocks of a century's storms. To this patriarch of the forest I often turn my steps at the soft hour of sunset; and when there I often find myself indulging in the wildest of fancies, or dipping, in memory, into the long past, or, perchance, wandering into the dreamy future, speculating upon the destinies of men around me, and of—myself.

The path leading to this tree, where I humor my day dreams, is not a difficult one; there are no stones, no fences in the way, but all is smooth—it is a delightful walk. And even so is our childhood. From the time we first see the light, until we commence our dreams of the future and begin to cherish memories of the past, we have no bitter regrets, no deep-rooted sorrows—all is joyous.

And now I have reached the foot of the great old century oak, and forthwith I commence a dream. First I penetrate into the past with a wondering step; but soon return, as one who has lost his way, and commence groping into the light and shadow of the dim future. What various scenes has this tree passed through! How many of our ancestors have stood beneath its wide-spreading branches, and perchance dreamed as I dream now. Those dreams of the past and future, when the present has no existence, are sweeter than any reality in life. In the past your dream is sometimes shadowed by scenes of sorrow, but not so in the future.

My dream returns, and I am soon in the distant years of futurity. What a happy life I will lead with Kate! I have long felt the influence, and revelled in the sunshine of boy-love—youthful adoration! Why do I love Kate? I cannot tell; I only wonder that every body does not love her. That bland smile, those heavenly eyes, and that angel-like voice—the silvery laughter which gushes sparkling forth—all these have wrought their effect upon me.

I wonder if Kate loves me? But no, alas! I am wandering again into the past. She does not love me. Those bright plans which I so delighted to dwell upon are no more.

In company I would never show, in my language, at least, that Kate held any place in my heart. But did I think that there was no language in the eye? Can not, and do not eyes speak a silent language, and are they not far more eloquent than the lips can be? Ah! love is an unconquerable passion. My eyes said, "Kate, I am rapt up in you" and my lips said, "It is absolutely ridiculous to say I am in love with Kate."

I was singularly constant (and now my dream rambles into the past and future in turn.) I loved Kate for years with a devotion rarely to be met with. I knew nothing of her feelings to me; I had never seen her alone. What bright thoughts of a future, made joyous by the union of our destinies, have occupied my mind, and here, in the shadow of this very oak! Then my dreams were all brilliant; but alas! would that I had never seen that day!

I was at the Barony, a fine old country mansion in Virginia, spending a few days, some ten miles from the seat of another relation, where Kate was sojourning.

I heard that Kate was anxious to see me, and was soon on my way to Alnwick. I was in ecstasies! I found Kate, Cousin Sue, and all, looking beautiful, but Kate! she was looking more angelic than I ever saw her before. She wore a thoughtful expression, not quite melancholy. I thought her manner to me was cold, and suggested as much to Cousin Sue. She told me that I was mistaken, that Kate really loved me. This cheered me beyond anything I had ever heard. For a long time I could not get an opportunity to converse with her alone, but at last it came. I saw her one evening, sitting alone under a mass covered rock overhanging a magnificent sheet of water, a romantic spot. She was gazing vacantly at the sunset; for it was this same hour at which I am recalling these memories of the past.

I approached her, and sitting at her feet, I took her little hand in mine, and pressing it to my lips, commenced to talk with her. We talked of weddings!

I led from this to the time of weddings. Kate preferred this same beautiful October, with its golden sunsets. At last I poured out my real feelings, my very soul in a passionate flow of words, and Kate kept gazing at the sunset. I saw a tear steal to the corner of her eye; but she quickly brushed it away, and after an effort, spoke.

Her words tore my heart. She said that it had long grieved her to see my love—for she had seen it in my eyes. She could never love me but as a very dear friend, and thought I had best try and forget her, or at least remember her only in the light of a friend.

My eyes grew dim—my bosom heaved—I bowed my head upon my hand, and was silent. Kate said it was painful to her to prolong the conversation, and we had better part. I took her hand again in mine, and told her that I had not anticipated a refusal from her; but since I had been mistaken, we would never meet again. Good-by. And I covered my face with my hands.

Kate rose and left me, disappearing in the shrubbery, and I heard her sobbing. The sun was fast sinking to rest, even as it is now. My hopes were dead, and they are dead still.

The sun is gone down, and I am still standing out under the century oak. I am surrounded by darkness, the darkness of despair. My life is all one eternal shade. I have no light to cheer me. My future is clouded. But even so that glorious orb will rise again to-morrow morn with redoubled brilliancy, will not the darkness of my life be cleared away? Surely the light of my existence has not been extinguished forever.

No! After a brief period of darkness, that sun will rise again with renewed and youthful vigor, and will rekindle the lights which have cheered me in life, and I will be as happy as before.

I am cheerful again, and retrace my steps through the darkness to the Barony.
My day-dream is ended!

LETTER FROM CRESCENT CITY.

CRESCENT CITY, Oct 13th, 1855.
EDITOR FIREMAN'S JOURNAL:—Dear Sir:— Having never seen any communication in your valuable paper from these diggings, I take this opportunity of giving some items in regard to the condition of our fire organization, which consists of a Hook and Ladder Company, known as Crescent Hook and Ladder Company No. 1. The Company was organized on the 12th of September, 1854, and is now in a thriving condition, with thirty active members on her roll, who, in time of danger, will stand second to none in the State. One of Sacramento's boys, who has been long and favorably known, is now Foreman of the Company.

A strong effort is being made to organize an Engine Company. Should it be successful, I will not fail to inform you of all the particulars.

At the annual meeting of Crescent Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, held October 6th, the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing term:—J. A. Lord, Foreman; J. G. Wall, First Assistant; H. Orman, Jr., Second Assistant; J. Gatte, Secretary; B. F. Dorris, Treasurer. You will soon hear again from Yours, &c., CRESCENT.

The following "Extract from an Editor's Journal," affords an amusing insight into the daily doings of one of the fraternity:—

SUNDAY.—Thank heaven! no steamer to-day, so had plenty of time to make love to wife, and take a nap in church. Had a cozy dinner—wife's uncle, a jolly bachelor, present. Lor! how purple he grew when Johnny told on his gony too!—devilish good heart, though. Said the baby was the best baby he ever knew. No doubt of that. Fixed fast. At 8 P. M. went to office as spruce and fresh as may be. Unusual quantity of news, murders, suicides, hangings, and the like, which served up in first rate style. Wrote a leader on "Domestic Felicity." 1 o'clock. Monday morning—mists all in, slatted and out away till 2; went home tired but in good spirits.

MONDAY.—Got a headache. Lost two old bachelor subscribers on account of leader—swore at "Domestic Felicity" for an hour. Snooks of the Gazette got first news of a horrible murder in Kamshatka, and got an extra out. Flew in a passion and kicked the devil into coal cellar, went home, spanked the baby, and took a nap.

MONDAY EVENING.—Exchanges as dry as a hay loft. Must have something exciting. Public absolutely becoming too virtuous. Not a crime case for a month. Won't do!

TUESDAY.—Raining furiously. A flood would be a Godsend. A bridge or two smashed up would be glorious. Mails all fail, so by way of exercise pitch into Nicholas, rub up Louis Napoleon, and give the "Crowned Heads" generally, a pretty good dressing. 10 P. M.—Wet to the skin, umbrella carried away by the wind, got sprawled into a puddle. Let off wrath upon the corporation, abused them high, indignation worked up by sundry hot whiskey punches.

WEDNESDAY.—Charged Snooks with conspiracy against the public liberty. Proved that he had been bought over by British gold. A set-to at Albany, fine chance for patriotic indignation, which had on thick. Cheap article that patriotism, and wonderfully telling too.

THURSDAY.—Heard of a splendid seduction and abduction case. Miss Smith—mysterious, very! Dark personage—Spanish cloak—strange vehicle—dashed off, suppressed screams, distracted parents, frantic brothers, fainting sisters. Just finished, two columns long, beautiful article, full of sentiment—learned it was a hoax—lady had gone to take tea with a cousin. Went home in a towering passion, kicked a dog that got in the way, owner going to flug me made off, followed by a crowd who wanted to see a fight; boxed an urchin's ears, got three cheers. Home, all squalling, baby cutting teeth. Remarkable fact in Natural History, people will have babies!

FRIDAY.—Dark and foggy, no mails, tried to squeeze a little news out of old papers, no go.—Must have matter, wrote an essay on the Equilibrium—more yet. Concocted some mysterious paragraphs about fashionable exposures, interrupted by a big whiskered gentleman armed with a revolver and a bowie-knife, who demanded the editor. Strategy fair in war, so plumped a lie at him and said he was in Boston. Big whiskered gentleman dubious, swore that he meant to have his heart, for putting him in the police reports. Believing that a piece of personal property rather valuable, at least to the owner, called all hands and tumbled him out. Devil began to bowl for copy, still no news, so killed off a few eccentric citizens in Wisconsin, threatened civil war in Passamquoddy Bay, hung a man in Florida, and gave the dying speech and confession. The cry is still for more. Desperate resource, predicted a revolution in France, sure to be verified. "Equilibrium" got knocked into "pi." Devil impatient, time to go to press, discovered a gold mine in Lake Champlain, enough, suction pump on brain removed; sank down exhausted, much resembling a squeezed lemon.

The story of the man who had a nose so large he could not blow it without the use of gunpowder, is a hoax.

The man who had no music in his sole wore seasoned leather.

An Ill-Timed Bon-Mot.

Froger, an actor at one of the minor theatres of the Boulevard in Paris, had entered into an engagement with the manager of the French theatre at St Petersburg, where he had travelled the good fortune so greatly to please Paul I, that he soon became a distinguished favorite of the monarch. An ill-timed bon-mot one day convinced Froger how dangerous it was to speak too freely to the eccentric autocrat. It was at the imperial dinner table, when one of the guests lavished the present Emperor at the expense of Peter the Great.

"That is robbing Peter to pay Paul," said the Emperor, turning to his favorite, "is it not so, Froger?"

"Certainly, sir," answered the latter. "To satisfy Paul we may rob not only Peter the Great, but also Peter the Apostle."

"And pray, why so?" asked the Czar, quickly. "Because," said the actor, "Paul in his anger has frequently commanded, in the words of our Saviour, 'Go and hear the cross through the world, more especially in Siberia.'"

Paul showed anger in his face, and no one dared to laugh or be pleased with the actor's reply. A few minutes afterwards the Emperor rose and dismissed the company.

It was in the middle of winter, about midnight, when Froger was aroused from his sleep by a loud knocking at his door. He jumped from his bed, opened the door, and saw to his amazement an officer and a file of soldiers enter the apartment. The former produced a warrant from the Emperor, banishing Froger to Siberia. We may readily imagine the terror of the Frenchman. He cried, threw himself upon the floor, tore his hair, and repeatedly exclaimed, "What crime have I committed to deserve such punishment?" He received no answer. He begged for a few hours' delay, to throw himself at the feet of the monarch and learn the nature of his guilt. In vain; the officer would only allow him time to pack up a few clothes and linen. Scarcely was the operation finished, when he was surrounded by the soldiers and carried outside the house, where a coach was waiting. He was then lifted into it—more dead than alive—while two soldiers, with drawn swords and cocked pistis, took their seats on each side of him. The doors of the vehicle were locked, and the officer giving the signal, the coach rolled away at full speed, surrounded by a cavalry escort. His first stage lasted, Froger was unable to tell, the vehicle was so thickly covered that not the least ray of light could penetrate. He was told on entering the coach, that the soldiers had orders to shoot him on the spot the moment he opened his mouth to put any questions to them. He consequently kept his mouth shut, and suffered a world of pain. The door of the coach was at last opened—it was broad daylight. His eyes, however, were bandaged, and he was led into a miserable hut, the doors and windows of which were closed as soon as he entered. When the bandage was removed he saw by the faint glimmer of a rush-light, a dish of coarse food upon a board before him. Though he had fasted for some time, he could hardly swallow a morsel; fear, however, induced him to eat, for the faces that watched his motions seemed to portend no good. Siberia! Siberia! that was the only thought that was to live in that terrible land. Froger gave himself up to despair, when the previous officer—by-the-by, an old acquaintance—entered the room, attended by a courier. The poor prisoner felt as if he had not seen that friendly face for years. In the joy of his heart, he was about to embrace him; but a motion with the hand and a stern look restrained him, while the finger of the officer pressed upon his lips, imposed silence. He had flattered himself that the courier had brought an order for his release; but he was mistaken.

The officer dismissed his guide, and ordered the soldiers to leave the room and wait outside. Being alone with the prisoner, he said, aloud, in a whisper, "Froger, we must now part. I have accompanied you to the first stage, and you will hence be under the inspection of another officer. Be careful not to speak a word. I risk much even in giving this caution; but I am your friend. Have you any orders for me? Can I serve you on my return to St. Petersburg?" Poor Froger melted into tears. Instead of replying to the question, he only beaviled having to undergo a punishment for an unknown crime. "An unknown crime!" said the officer. "Don't you, then, know what you have done? Are you mad, Froger? Have you forgotten the sarcasms you made at the imperial table? It has offended the Emperor; you are punished because there was so much truth in it."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed the exile. "Hush! be silent!" whispered the other; "walls have ears. But, not to waste time, listen Froger. I am the only one whom you know; henceforth, during your long journey, you will find faces wholly unknown to you. The Emperor, you are aware, is immovable in his resolves, and inexorable in his wrath. You had better, therefore, be resigned to your fate, you have nothing to hope. Tell me, then, quickly, what can I do for you?"

"Speak for me to his Majesty."

"Not a word of that," said his friend; "ask anything but that."

"If that be the case," said poor Froger, "I have nothing to ask."

"And your money and trinkets," rejoined the officer, "you have left them all behind. Can lodge them safely for you somewhere, until you return?"

"My return?" gasped Froger; "then I am not exiled for life?"

"Of course not—only for three years. Take courage; they will soon pass away—and then—"

"Three years for an inn cent word!" whined Froger, and began again to cry and complain. But at this moment the soldiers entered, and bandaging his eyes, they lifted him into the vehicle, and away it rolled again.

It seemed a very long stage—for Froger calculated that he had travelled a whole day, when the vehicle again stopped. As before, he was bandaged and led into a wretched hut, a counterpart of the first, and lighted by a piece of blazing pine-wood. The same coarse food was placed before him. He looked at the faces around him. None that he knew—none that inspired him with comfort. After several similar journeys, the vehicle again stopped. By Froger's estimate, as well as he could tell, he had travelled three days and nights. His eyes were bandaged as before; but instead of being led, his guides seized him, and carried him for some time, until they placed him upon a wooden bench. He waited for a few minutes, and wondered why the bandage was not removed. At last he heard soft whistlings, and then quick steps approaching. His hands were suddenly seized and tied behind his back. He tremblingly asked what it meant, but received no reply. In another moment his coat was torn off his shoulders and his breast laid bare. Froger now thought that eternity, instead of Siberia, was the goal of his journey. "Take aim!" was the command of one whose voice he thought he knew—"Fire!" and several shots were at once discharged. Froger fell senseless to the ground. He was raised, unwounded, and whilst he was borne along he became sensible of a division of soldiers marching past him. Having been placed upon a chair, his hands were unbound and the bandage removed. He then found himself in the same room, at the same table, and in the same company, where that unhappy ban-mot had escaped him. Opposite to him sat the Emperor. The astonishment, terror and doubt alternately reflected in the poor actor's face, so greatly excited the risible faculties of Paul, that the entire company joined heartily in the mirth. Froger fell in a swoon. The whole terrible trip had lasted only twenty-four hours. The Emperor had accompanied him in disguise all the time, and found immense delight in the prisoner's painful sufferings. Though used to comedies, it was long before the actor recovered from the sad dream of the imperial farce.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 13th, 1855.
EDITOR FIREMAN'S JOURNAL:—There is but little to communicate this week relating to the Fire Department. The bell on 8th street sounded an alarm on Saturday night, and brought all the companies out. That bell is getting a bad name, and the companies on whose house it is, are censured for the many false alarms it produces. The time was when our citizens could depend on it as a faithful watcher, but its usefulness now is rather questionable. Engine Co. No. 3's bell was once a rather notorious character, but is now quite respectable, although occasionally it will, in connection with its up town contemporary, use its tongue falsely. Would it not be a relief to the firemen if the clappers of those bells were kept at the station house?

Poetry and Extracts.

MY PHILOSOPHY.

Bright things can never die,
Even though they fade;
Heavy and misty
Deathless were made;
What though the summer day
Fades at eve away;
Dull not the moon's soft ray
Silence the night?
Bright things can never die,
Saith my philosophy;
I know, though he pass by,
Lives us the light.

Kind words can never die,
Cherished and blest;
God knows how deep they lie
Stored in the breast.
Like childhood's simple rhyme
Saith o'er a thousand times,
Aye, in all years and climes,
Instant and near,
Kind words can never die,
Saith my philosophy;
Deep in the soul they lie,
God knows how deep.

Childhood can never die—
Weeks of the past
Float on the memory
Even to the last.
Many a happy thing,
Many a dashed dream,
Flow, on Time's ceaseless wing
Far, far away;
Childhood can never die,
Saith my philosophy;
Weeks of our infancy,
Live on for aye.

Street fancies never die,
They hover behind
Some fairy legacy
Stored in the mind—
Some happy thought or dream,
Pure as day's earliest beam,
Kissing the gentle stream,
In the lone glade,
Yet though these things pass by,
Saith my philosophy,
Bright things can never die,
Even though they fade.

A Lawyer's carriage is only a blue bag on wheels.
A woman's age is a problem of which no Archimedes has ever yet cried out "Eureka."
Every Dramatist fancies all his Geese are Swans of Avon.

Nothing is woman's only consolation when she has no money to spend.
Drunkennes is a dead wall with a row of broken bottles at the top.

Repentance must travel always by an Express Train, for it so repeatedly arrives too late!

Isn't there a great deal of well deserved satire in the following anecdote? and would it not, if tested, prove to be of a pretty wide application?

"A dark colored man once went to Portland, Maine, and attended church. He went into a good pew; when the next neighbor to the man 'swayed it, said:

"What do you put a nigger into our pew for?" "Nigger," he's no nigger—he's a Haytian."

"Don't help that; he's black as the ace of spades."

"Why, sir, he's a correspondent of mine." "Can't help that, I tell you, he's black."

"But he's worth a million of dollars." "Is he, though?—I reckon not."

Here is a thrilling poem, which we advise our lady friends to read with salts at command:—

"I saw him bare his throat, and seize
The blue, cold, gleaming steel,
And grimly try the tempered edge,
He was so soon to feel."

"He raised on high the glittering blade,
Then first I found a tongue,
'Hold, madman! stay the frantic deed'
I cried, and found I sprung."

"He heard me, but he heeded not,
One glance around he gave,
And ere I could arrest his hand,
He had—begun to slay."

An old woman down east somewhere, happened to hear that the husband of another woman had hung himself; and that he had performed this ticklish operation from the bough of an apple tree in his orchard. So off she set post-haste, to see the bereaved one. She found her in tears, and a suit of sable,

We refer the Fire and Water Committee to the proceedings, as published in another column, of the Board of Foremen of the Fire Department. The impression seems to have gone abroad that the members of the Department through their officers were playing "possum" in the passage of those resolutions and that when the alarm sounds they will as usual be ready to do their duty. It is a great mistake. The Department is in earnest. For the last three months the various companies have been compelled to put up with so many inconveniences that the limit to their forbearance has been reached, and they have determined to take a decided stand in matters in which all are so deeply interested. As far as the wharves are concerned, they are a more secondary consideration in the eyes of the firemen, but when we state that nine out of every ten lengths of the hose of the Department would be useless in case of an extensive conflagration, the matter does become of importance and to a greater extent than even the Fire and Water Committee are willing to acknowledge. Not having been "greased" in consequence of the City not having sufficient money, credit, or energy to purchase the proper requisites, those of the Department therefore are as hard as rocks, rendering it a difficult matter to reel them on the hose carriages, the natural consequence will be that when water is forced through them they will burst and be useless. Independent of this important fact many of the Cisterns in the most combustible portions of the city are without a drop of water and others but partially filled; this is not the fault of the water contractor, but the bad state of repair in which those cisterns are present.

From prudential reasons we refrain from giving the locality of the empty cisterns, believing that if we did, speedy conflagrations would follow. We state these facts to the public for the sole purpose of relieving the members of the Fire Department from any responsibility in case, through the neglect we have above alluded to, the citizens of San Francisco, should become losers.

It is superfluous to reiterate what we have said of the Fire Department, and of those who have contributed so much to their happiness and welfare, the firemen of San Francisco recognize no obstacle as being insurmountable when danger arrives, but that they must be in possession of the proper conveniences to meet it none for a moment will gain say. We earnestly appeal to the citizens of this city, to come forward and remedy the evils we have spoken of; we have pointed out the danger which threatens, let it be averted.

The Board of Foremen met again on Monday night at which time any suggestion on the part of the people, would be courteously received and considered. Twenty-five thousand dollars judiciously disposed of would meet the exigencies of the present case.

We understand that the Postmaster has not as yet received any orders from the Post Office Department at Washington, requiring him to remove the present Post Office.

We trust that he will not, for while a few would doubtless be benefitted by the change, hundreds would be put to a great inconvenience. An institution similar to the Post Office, in which all classes are interested should be in that locality where all classes could be accommodated, and we therefore contend that the Post Office in its present position is in the most central portion of the City, and one easy of access to all. The idea that the convenience of the Mercantile portion of the community is to be taken into consideration in the selection of a location for a Post Office is preposterous. Let those who think differently, repair to the Post Office on an evening when a mail steamer arrives, and they will find that those who wait to receive their letters from the general delivery and whose money goes far to make up the revenues of the office outnumber five to one those who represent the class sought to be accommodated by this Post Office change. The wishes of the entire community should be consulted in regard to the matter, not the convenience of a small portion of it.

THE ENCAMPMENT.—When in Sacramento a few weeks since, it was intimated that a desire had been expressed by a large number of the commanding officers throughout the State, to hold a grand encampment of the Military of California in Sacramento, sometime in the spring. We hope that the matter will not be allowed to be forgotten, but that the proper steps will be taken to bring about the result. To have the affair terminated successfully, much time will be required in preparation for it, and we think it would be advisable for commanding officers to learn the feeling of their men in regard to it, and report to General Kibbe if favorable. An encampment, under the supervision of men who thoroughly understand the duties devolving upon them, would have the effect of doing much to advance the prosperity of the volunteer militia of the State.

In view of the position taken by the editor of the new evening paper, and as he has signified his wish to be a friend, we take the liberty of suggesting the propriety of slightly altering the name of the paper, calling it for the future, the "Evening Bully-tin," for under the circumstances, if the editor intends to pursue the course he has apparently marked out, of indiscriminately abusing all against whom he may have any feeling, we do not know of a more appropriate name.

A few days since, the editor of the paper alluded to, saw fit to announce in anything but complimentary terms, upon the press of this city, for a want of courage or honesty in combatting properly with the difficulties under which San Francisco has labored. We can assure the editor of the Bully-tin that if his paper, from its inception, should be taken as a criterion to judge of the strength and influence of the press of this city, all the emanations of the concentrated wisdom of the editorial force would have but very little influence or weight upon the minds of men. We have been connected with the press of this State for very nearly five years, and we have always found it to be the fact, that quiet, gentlemanly, decisive and unostentatious articles on the general topics of the day, have triumphed in their intended effect, and the result to be produced; whereas, blustering, bullying, personal paragraphs have fallen harmless to the ground, retaining only a sufficiency of force to bound back and injure their author. The people of San Francisco have become a matter of fact people, reality is what they require, and long tirades of abuse upon men in a public or private capacity, have no interest with them. Because a man may have ambition, which others have not the talent or energy to aspire to, is no reason why he should be made the object of assault or be dragged unwittingly before the public. Ambition in our republican country, is freedom; and the poor boy born in a hut, may reach the point which ambition points to, sooner than those born in marble halls and arrayed in cloth and fine linen. Personalities indulged in to a great extent in a newspaper, serves to lower the paper offending and its contents, in the estimation of people, unless it be a paper devoted to "slang and abuse." We regret to say that the Bully-tin, if its present course is persisted in, will tarnish instead of adding brightness to the name of the press of the city and State.

CITY GUARDS.—This Corps of Citizen Soldiers, believing that delays are dangerous, have provided themselves with an Armory, preferring to bear their own expenses, in that respect than to wait for the dilatory movement of the City authorities. The Guards have rented handsome and convenient rooms over the Post Office, where they have fitted up in splendid style, with every convenience required. We are of the opinion that it would be just as well for every company to "go and do likewise" for it is a settled point unless they do so, they will be without the means of drilling, during the entire winter, as far as the Council is concerned.

CELESTIAL.—The turning of the Chinamen in this city, is becoming to be celebrated. Every advantage that they can possibly take of the framing of the laws they exercise to the fullest extent. For instance a son of the Flowery Kingdom having his domicile situated in an alley-way, leading from Jackson to Pacific street, wishing to enlarge his premises, and knowing full well that it would be a violation of the City Ordinance erecting a frame building, proceeded to make the required addition, "board by board," from day to day, until a respectable sized tenement loomed up to the astonished vision of the "peachey" race. Not calculating, however, on the inquisitive nature of the Fire Warden of that District, John managed he had accomplished quite an undertaking, and looked forward in glorious anticipation to the comfort to be enjoyed in his new mansion. But alas, for all earthly hopes.

"Up a rocket, down a stick," the Fire Warden yesterday paid the neighborhood spoken of a visit, and without much "as by your leave sir," razed the building to the ground, notwithstanding the wailing and lamentation which went up from the "cherry lips" of the "Sergios" of the fairest daughters of China, who in unmistakable language, (although unintelligible except by their gesticulations,) informed the invading party they were making too free.

The steamship "Golden Age," of the P. M. S. S. Co.'s line, leaves to day with the Mail, passengers and treasure for the States. The "Age" is in perfect order for the trip, and under the command of Commander J. T. Watkins, none will have cause to regret making a trip on her. For the future there is no night travel on the Isthmus, so nicely are the movements of the mail steamers arranged, that they arrive in the morning at Panama, passengers take the cars immediately for Aspinwall, and leave the same afternoon for New York or New Orleans, making the through trip in about twenty-two days.

WASHINGTON SQUARE.—This spot is a disgrace to the city of San Francisco. We were, a day or two since, in its neighborhood, and we must say that a more disgustingly filthy locality there is not to be found in this metropolis. Every thing of an unpleasant nature that can possibly be raked and scraped together from the purlieus of dirt and putrescence, is heaped together and deposited in this "square." The stench arising from the carcasses of dead animals, is unbearable, and has reached that point which compels pedestrians to go blocks out of their way to escape the nauseous effluvia. Property must depreciate in the neighborhood, for it is an utter impossibility to reside within two squares of the locale, without inhaling the pestilential breath which arises from it. We do not know whose duty it is to attend to the matter, the responsibility is shifted from one official to another until the effort to apply a remedy becomes almost as sickening as the dirt itself. We suggest to the venerable Aldermen of the Second Ward, to perambulate around "Washington (Heaven save the word) Square," and if he is not fully impressed that a square with any other name would smell as sweet, we will not say another word on the subject.

STEPHEN T. KING.—We tender our acknowledgments to this gentleman for his uniform courtesy to us during his clerkship of the Board of Supervisors. Mr. King, although performing his duties faithfully and competently, we regret to say, compelled to give way to the pressure of political influence. Mr. Andrews, an able and worthy gentleman, is elected in his stead. Mr. King retires from his post with the good wishes of his many friends.

MONUMENTAL 6.—This company received from the States, by the last steamer, several lengths of very fine section hose, from the factory of John Rodgers of Baltimore.

Correspondence of the Fireman's Journal.

MUSIC AND DRAMATIC.—Mlle Rachel made her debut on Monday evening, September 31, at the Metropolitan Theatre, the finest and best in this city. The house was quite full, and, as usual, composed all classes. The rich were there as a matter of course, to see and be seen, and to be able to talk about the great Tragédienne; and the educated and refined, to enjoy and appreciate the performance, so congenial to their feelings. Corneille's Tragédie de "Les Horaces" was the piece. The first part was rather coldly received by the majority of the audience—probably from a want of familiarity with the French language. The closing part, however, drew down thunders of applause. The subsequent performances have been thinly attended—the reason is obvious: the manager (her brother, M. Felix) has fixed the prices too high to suit the masses. He will probably find he is mistaken, when it will be too late to remedy the evil. It is a known fact that as a general thing the best educated are not to be found among the rich, or what is styled the "aristocracy"; but with those of moderate means, and this is the class that has the inclination, but not the ability, to appreciate and enjoy so intellectual a feast as Rachel's acting. Mlle Teresa Parodi has given several concerts, and has succeeded in filling Niblo's saloon to its utmost capacity. She performed here in opera, about three years since, but did not succeed so well as she has now. The prices of admission are as they have always been in Niblo's within the reach of all who wish to hear her—Barnum, who creates a great sensation every where, has been giving the Bostonians a specimen of his ability in attracting crowds. We found the baby show in this city succeeded so well, that he attempted the same thing in Boston, and was equally, if not more successful than in New York. We would not be at all surprised to hear that he has been getting a baby show in California, and perhaps may induce the Bearded Lady and Giantess to accompany him there for exhibition.

The Yellow Fever at the South, has created no little excitement in this city. The vessel that carried the disease to Norfolk and Portsmouth, was bound for New York, but being disabled at sea, she put into Norfolk, and then the fever did not break out until her cargo was broken. Several vessels have arrived here lately, with cases of Yellow Fever on board, and would have even landed at our wharves, had it not been for the prompt activity of our board of health, who compelled all vessels from Baltimore and ports south, to undergo quarantine law. This action, sanctioned by our mayor, has raised the indignation of the Baltimoreans to such an extent, that the mayor of that city has threatened to retaliate. The Crescent City, from New Orleans and Havana, a vessel here a few days since, with the purser sick with yellow fever, and two other cases of a similar nature. She was quarantined for thirty days, but in violation of law, she left quarantine, and took in coal at one of our wharves. The captain was arrested, and required to give bail in $5,000, to answer the charge.

New buildings are going up in all parts of the city. Some are to be built entirely of iron—one of the finest is the banking house of Duncan, Sherman & Co., on the corner of Nassau and Pine streets. It is faced with brown stone, very handsomely cut and ornamented. The Tontine Building, on the corner of Wall and Water streets, is built of French stone, but little used as yet in this country. It is a dirty white or cream color, and very soft, which makes the expense of cutting much less, and is said to grow hard from exposure—a very desirable quality.

The Mechanics' Bank affair has had a natural death. It has been something more than a nine days' wonder. The President, Mr. Shepherd Knapp, has published a letter to the stockholders of that institution, in reply to the defence of F. W. Edwards, their late cashier—because he had made statements and insinuations which he affirmed to be false, and injurious both to the bank and himself. Mr. K. also states that he has read the cashier's pamphlet with surprise and regret. From the tenor of Mr. K.'s letter, (which is written in a very gentlemanly style,) it appears that Mr. E. had imagined that the president was his enemy.

The money market has fluctuated but little for the last fourteen days. The rates of interest have become a little more firm. The capital which for some time past has been floating for want of profitable investment in commercial undertakings, is gradually being absorbed in all the mercantile branches, which are resuming their usual activity, and are in a condition of general prosperity. The decrease in our specie exports, and the prospect of a further falling off, in anticipation of the approaching export of produce of this country, is giving new vigor to the stock market, which has had a downward tendency until within a few days. There has been a large amount of Erie Railroad shares sold lately, with some few tuitions, but with a tendency upwards. The advance for the last fortnight is about three per cent.—the last quotation being 55½. Reading Railroad shares have improved two per cent.; and Michigan Central and Southern each one per cent. Galena and Chicago railroad shares have improved the most, and have been sold as high as 120, an advance of 8 or 9 per cent. in ten days; but this has not been sustained, and they have dropped back to 117½. Illinois Central railroad shares have declined about one per cent., and the Transit Company have also declined nearly one per cent.

The market reports have undergone some slight changes. Cotton has fallen about ½ to ¾ of a cent. Flour—the lower grades have advanced a little, while the better qualities have decreased; so that it remains about the same, as a whole. Corn Meal remains about the same. Grain, also, has changed but little. Naval Stores—Spirits Turpentine has been quite active, and has advanced 3½ cents—say 46½ per gallon. Crude Turpentine is scarce. Provisions—Pork, $21.37½ to $22.60; Beef, $11.50 and $11.75 for prime; $13a$14 for country mess. Rice is lower; the accounts of the new crop has had the tendency to depress the trade.

EVERETTS.
At a semi-annual meeting of Protection Engine Co. No. 2 of Sacramento, held on Monday evening last, the following were elected officers for the ensuing term: J. H. Honsman, Foreman; Andrew Aitken, 1st Assistant Foreman; Matthew Reed, 2d Assistant Foreman; Hiram Kaufman, Secretary; H. Van Every, Treasurer.

FIRST LIGHT DRAGONS.—We are informed that the target excursion of this Company will take place about the latter part of this month, for which considerable preparation is being made. A ball in the evening will close the festivities of the day.

Celebrated Characters in Sacramento.

As it has become quite fashionable for newspaper writers to give the history of prominent citizens, who by their conduct have done something to merit a notice from correspondents of the press; and not having seen anything of the kind in the columns of the Journal, I will give your many readers in this city a description of a few of the notables that manage to stay here. The first on the list is Old Shep, the Bottle Vender.

This illustrious individual has been identified with the interests of Sacramento City for the last five years. It is reasonable to suppose that there is not a nook or cranny in the City of the Plains where Old Shep is not familiar with. He can be seen any morning perambulating the streets, with his basket under his arm, eagerly scanning the alleys and vacant lots after old bottles. Shep is alone in his gory; he has no opoties, and then a direct tax to the Recorder's office, in the shape of diverse incorporeations on board the "bug," for he is fond of red wine, and it has been said that he voted any on the prohibitory liquor law. Shep is something of an orator in his way. "His true, he has not the force of a Poote or a Peyton, as he is troubled with a slight impediment in his speech, which, however, only serves to give additional lustre to his lucid explanations. His politics are of the neutral order, and he joins his faith on William-White, and strongly believes that he alone is fit for Governor, or even President. To see Shep in his glory, is to watch him after his basket is filled, as he passes along Front street. With what scorn he looks down on the newsmen!—How he turns up that aristocratic nose at the organ grinder who is revolutionizing the "Bald Privateer." A fortune, in the shape of a round, silver half-dollar, is seen in the perspective, and in imagination four bit-drinks are put out of sight. Shep's has his reverses, like the rest of mankind, for sometimes he so far forgets himself as to appropriate his neighbors' goods to his own use. He is firm on the social question, and was in favor of the removal of the Capital from Bononia to this city, although his enemies have attributed his action upon that subject to selfish motives, as it was said that he knew the wisdom of the State was some empty bottles, and therefore he would come in for his perquisites. Shep has been a dealer in scrip; he purchased at a great discount, some of Page, Bacon & Co's warrants, and holds them yet, waiting, no doubt, like many others, for a rise in the market. He is a strict observer of the sabbath, in one sense of the word, as he will not gather bottles on that day, but rather chooses to pay his debts to Buechus Shep, for the last month, has established a branch of business altogether new to him—the manufacturing of brooms, or rather, pine dusters, curled up in fine shape, and artistically set off with red ribbon. He has on one or two occasions essayed to effect sales by attempting to sing that operative air of "Buy a Broom," but owing to the citizens mistaking his notes for the Marysville steamboat's whistle, it proved a decided failure.

I have not the least doubt, but that ere the rainy season sets in, Shep will go back to his legitimate business again, and become as great a bottle holder as any individual connected with the ring. In my next I shall give you the private life and public services of Captain Hauke, who has so long stood by this city in prosperity or adversity, and no doubt will do so to the last.

Yours, S. P. K.

We had the pleasure of a visit a few days since from Mr. Charles H. Bull, the Chief Engineer of the Marysville Fire Department—a band of men their brethren in San Francisco always delight to honor.

NATIONAL GUARDS.—This Company are going ahead finely; through the courtesy of the San Francisco Blues, they have possession of their Armory, at the corner of Dupont and Jackson streets, where under the military command of Capt. Pollock the Guards receive instruction, Tuesday and Friday evenings, are their regular drill nights, and the members present on those occasions, evince that the proper spirit animates the men.

The "Baltimore Clipper" says—Dr. Wakeman Bryarly, of California and Miss Mary S. Gittings, eldest daughter of Dr. David S. Gittings, of Long Green, Baltimore county, were united in wedlock by the Rev. Dr. Cox, of Grace Church, on Wednesday afternoon—the happy couple having in waiting upon them two groomsmen and bridesmaids. There were upwards of three hundred ladies and gentlemen, relatives and friends of the parties in attendance, and after the ceremonies consequent, they repaired to Barnum's Hotel, where a magnificent wedding party, gotten up regardless of cost, had been prepared. The company filled two spacious parlours, and the merriment around the festive board continued unabated until a late hour in the evening. The bridal party left the next morning for New York. We learn that it is the intention of Mr. Bryarly to visit Russia, where he will remain ten or twelve months, and upon his return conduct his wife to California.

WALLACE GUARDS.—Nightly this corps drills at their armory in Sacramento street. Capt. McDonald intends to have the men perfect, and from all accounts, they are progressing admirably. Now that the nights will be moonlight, our volunteer companies will have a fine opportunity for street drills, which we doubt not they will all embrace.

CRESCENT 10.—At the annual meeting of Crescent Engine Company No. 10, held at their engine house on Wednesday evening, the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year.

JAMES HERBERT, Foreman;
GEORGE FARLEY, Assistant Foreman;
EDWIN B. MCGROTT, Secretary;
CORNELIUS PEASLEE, Treasurer.

THE DEFEATERS.—Since the arrival of the "Independence Man of War," at this port, she has lost eighty-three men by desertion. It is said that almost all of those who have left the ship, were the most useless and troublesome of the crew, with a few exceptions. A rendezvous has been opened on Davis street, near Oregon, where one of the officers of the Independence is daily engaged in shipping men in lieu of the deserters.

The following gentlemen were elected officers of the Yuba Engine Co. of Marysville, for the next term, on the 12th instant. The Yubas are always well officered and well manned: H. Leland, Foreman; Chas. Stokes, 1st Asst Foreman; Wm. Schuchert, 2nd Asst; P. M. Chandler, Secretary; G. Beneter, Treasurer; P. J. Cody, Steward.

BOARD OF FOREMEN.

The Board of Foremen met on Sunday afternoon last, Oct. 14th, at 2 o'clock, in the chambers of the Board of Delegates, City Hall. George H. Hossfross in the chair.

The object of the meeting being stated to take into consideration the condition of the hose of the Department, the cisterns, repairs of the apparatus and the state of the wharves.

On motion, a committee of five, consisting of Messrs Hossfross, of Monumental 6; Short, of Vigilant 9; Butters, of Pennsylvania 12; Haskell, of Volunteer 7; and Whitney, of Howard 3, was appointed to draft a series of resolutions to be presented to the Common Council relative to the matters stated.

The Board then adjourned until Monday, Oct. 15th, at 4 o'clock P. M.

MONDAY, Oct. 15th, 4 P. M.

The Board met pursuant to adjournment. Present—Messrs Scannell, of Empire 1; Cole, of Manhattan 2; Whitney, of Howard 3; O'Brien, of California 4; Nittman, of Knickerbocker 5; Haskell, of Volunteer 7; Walsh, of Pacific 8; Short, of Vigilant 9; Devoe, of Columbian 11; Butters, of Pennsylvania 12; Van Bokkelen, of Sansome Hook and Luller 3, and Hossfross, of No. 6, in the chair.

The report of the Committee appointed at the last meeting was read and accepted and the committee discharged.

Resolved, That the Common Council be and are hereby petitioned to grant the Chief Engineer the authority to have all necessary repairs made to the hose and machinery of this Department, so as to enable them to act with success in extinguishing fires when they occur, and that the authority so granted be passed in a legal form by Ordinance.

Resolved, That we urge upon the Council, the necessity of at once repairing the cisterns and replacing the trap-door (some eighteen being lost) making it actually dangerous for limb and life, to man and beast that may have occasion to pass in the neighborhood of these man-traps.

Resolved, That the Council be and are hereby petitioned to pass an ordinance whereby the streets leading to that portion of the east water front, bounded by Market and Pacific streets, be placed in repair, or that some one street leading to Davis street be repaired, in order that the Fire Department may safely pass in event of a conflagration.

Resolved, That we, the Board of Foremen, will, when acting in charge of our respective companies, during fires or alarms of fires, not allow our members or machinery to cross Battery street, unless we are satisfied it is safe, and if such time as some one of the streets crossing Battery is properly repaired.

Mr. Short, of Vigilant 9, introduced a resolution that the report be taken up by sections for approval.

The resolution was adopted.

The first, second and third resolutions were adopted as read.

The fourth resolution excited some considerable debate, in which Mr. Short, Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Butters, Mr. Walsh and Mr. Nittman, took part. Various reasons were advanced why the adoption of the resolution in its present shape would be impolitic.

A motion to lay the resolution on the table was lost.

Upon the adoption of the resolution, the ayes and nays were demanded with the following result:

Ayes—Messrs Scannell, of No. 1; Cole, of No. 2; Whitney, of No. 3; Nittman, of No. 5; Haskell, of No. 7; Devoe, of No. 11; Butters, of No. 12; President Hossfross.

Nays—Messrs O'Brien, of No. 4; Walsh, of No. 8; Short, of No. 9, and Van Bokkelen, of Hook and Luller 3.

Mr. Whitney, of No. 3, introduced a resolution that the Chief Engineer be invited to co-operate with the Board of Foremen in their action.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Whitney, of No. 3, moved that the proceedings of the Board, together with the votes upon the same, be published. Adopted.

Mr. Scannell, of No. 1, called for the report of the Treasurer of the Board, which was presented and read by Mr. Butters the Treasurer. Accepted and ordered on file.

Mr. Van B. kelen presented a resolution which was adopted, that the citizens doing business in the lower portion of the city be invited to act with the Board in their endeavors to have the streets thoroughly repaired.

Mr. Walsh introduced a resolution that when the Board adjourns it adjourn to meet on Monday evening next, Oct. 22d, at 7½ o'clock, in secret session.

The resolution was adopted and the Board adjourned.

GEO. LODER.—A complimentary benefit is to be given to this gentleman at the Metropolitan, on Wednesday evening next. We are glad that we can consistently endorse a complimentary benefit. George Loder is deserving of it; a little cloud of adversity darkens his prospects for the present, which his numerous friends intend to remove if possible. We trust that the entertainment to be given in his behalf will be a benefit indeed to him, and that sunshine and happiness will brighten the hopes of those depending upon him.

NEW CERTIFICATE.—We are gratified to be enabled to inform the members of the Fire Department that the requisite amount to liquidate the indebtedness on the engraving of the new Certificate was forwarded to New York to day, by Col. Florence Mahoney, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Delegates. By the 1st of January the new Certificates will be in possession of the members of the Department.

The Marysville Fire Department received by the Golden Gate, via the Isthmus, one thousand feet of splendidly made hose, from the manufactory of Button & Co., Waterford, N. Y.—The city authorities of Marysville purchased the Button engine for the Mutuals, paying for the same, five thousand dollars.

NEW PAPER.—Another new paper is to be commenced next week, in this city. Its object being to promulgate and advocate the principles of the American party. Messrs. Alexander Bell & Co., are the business men of the concern, Mr. Clark editor, and the name of the journal, "Daily American." We understand that a large amount of capital is at the disposal of the publishers. The size of the paper will be somewhat larger than the Sun.

JACKSON STREET.—The Fire Department is informed that this street is passable down to the water front, provided the apparatus is kept to the right in rolling down said street. On the left hand side of the street going down to the water there are holes large enough to take in a fire engine of any size.

Secretaries of the various companies in the Department, are requested to send in the credentials of the Delegates elect, to the Secretary of the Department.

LIST OF FIRES AND ALARMS DURING THE WEEK.

Oct. 17, 1 A. M.—Hall Bell alarm, third district; Davis street near Oregon; barrel of tea set under a frame building and fired. The prompt alarm and quick attendance of the firemen, prevented a serious conflagration. The entire apartment out. N. damage.
Oct. 17, 5¼ P. M.—Alarm from Vigilant bell; fire in rear of Cook, Elder & Co's oil works, Broadway between Dupont and Stockton streets. Damage light. Portion of the Department on the ground. Engines, 6, 9, 10, and 12, in service. No. 9 first water.

THE DUEL.—The duel which has been on the tapis for the last week, between H. B. Truett and Austin E. Smith, and which was frustrated on Thursday, through the interference of the Sheriff's officers, came off yesterday at half past one o'clock, in the neighborhood of San Mateo. The seconds for the first named gentleman being Col. R. P. Hammond and Hamilton Bowie, and for the latter, Col. E. J. C. Kewen and Volney E. Howard. The parties fought at a distance of ten paces, with revolvers. Mr. Truett fired five shots and Mr. Smith, four. The last shot of Mr. Truett taking effect in the fleshy part of the right leg of Mr. Smith, a short distance above the knee. The last shot of Mr. Smith passed through the seat of Mr. Truett's pantaloons. On receiving his antagonist's ball, Mr. Smith fell and further hostilities ceased, and the parties left the ground.

MARRIED:

In this city, Oct. 14th, by Rev. R. B. Brierly, Mr. Myron W. Allen to Miss Catherine Brown, all of this city.

DIED:

On the 17th of August, at New Rochelle, N. Y., Mr. James P. Huntington, aged 68 years; father of Capt. Thos. Huntington, of this city.

YOUNG AMERICA NO. 13.</

THEATRICAL AND MUSICAL.

THE AMERICAN.—At this establishment, crowded houses have been the order of the day, since our last; the dress circle presenting a full array of elegantly dressed ladies. The Misses Goughenheims have appeared every evening, still retaining all their old admirers and adding many new ones to their list. The "Jealous Wife," Housekeeper and "Green Bashes," being the principal pieces on the bills. The ever welcome Mrs. J. has appeared nightly with the Misses G's, adding lustre to the brilliancy of their performance. Mrs. J. is one of the few actresses the public will never tire of Mr. Booth, who takes the place of Mr. Wheelwright, at the American, is, we think, in several of his characters, too careless, not from any want of application, which tend to make an actor perfect. We do not like to see a man of Mr. Booth's attainments waste in the rendition of any part but he is performing—the whole beauty of which, may be married by the actor, to use a stage phrase, "not being up in his part." Mr. Smith, perfect as he always is, Mr. Marden, have also appeared during the week. The quiet and order maintained at this theatre, is worthy of more than a passing notice. It has more the appearance of a private parlor than a place of public amusement. To-night, the sparkling vivacious and enchanting Miss Joey, takes a benefit. The simple announcement is sufficient to draw an overflowing audience. The bill for the evening is Green Bashes and a favorite farce.

THE METROPOLITAN.—Miss Goddard has been performing at this house. "Winter's Tale" and "Cymbeline" being produced, excellent houses witness her impersonations of "Hermione" and "Imogene." "King Lear" has also found a place on the bills during the week. On Thursday evening, a benefit was given in aid of the First Department Charitable Fund,—at which, Mr. McKean Buchanan tendered his services, playing Sir Harcourt Courtenay in "London Assurance." Miss Goddard sustaining the part of Lady Gay Spunkier. The last act of "King Lear" closing the performance. The comedy was well performed, and splendidly put upon the stage. The garden scene was very fine, natural flowers being in profusion around the walks,—the hand of Fairchild, as usual, being seen therein. Mr. Buchanan appeared to be more at home on the Metropolitan stage than at the Union; his voice was finely modulated, and sounded much pleasanter to the ear. We are most happy to notice a decided improvement in his acting throughout the whole of the play. Miss Goddard, although at a loss somewhat for that everfervent spirit which is supposed to inspire ever Lady Gay, played admirably, and was heartily applauded. The remainder of the characters were sustained in good style, by the ladies and gentlemen attached to the theatre. Altogether, the benefit was a very successful one, and the addition made to the Charitable Fund of the Department very acceptable.

THE UNION.—Mr. Buchanan closed his engagement at this house on Tuesday evening, taking his benefit at that time; Hamlet being the play. The house was well filled; Mr. B. performing with more regard to the text than we have before seen him. He commences an engagement at Sacramento on Monday evening.

MILITARY TACTICS:

Expressly for the Militia of California:

BY WM. C. KIBBE,

ADJUTANT GENERAL OF CALIFORNIA.

SUBSCRIBED TO AND RECOMMENDED BY:

GEN. WM. C. KIBBE, Adjutant General of California.

Has been carefully and critically examined by new

Book on MILITARY TACTICS, we are pleased to recommend the work as the best adapted to the purposes intended by its Tactics.

The instruction is simple, concise, and well arranged, completing everything of real utility required for Infantry

Light Infantry, Rifles, Cavalry and Artillery Companies.

Comprising at the same time all the improvements of the present war.

It is intended a book which should be in the hands of every

Volunteer Soldier. We therefore, cordially recommend it to the Volunteer Companies, as in every way adapted to their drills, and likely to secure that uniformity in their work so much to be desired.
